"Playing with Giuly" e-SL project

Message from Giuliana Sapienza Student of Science of Education

I'm Giuliana Sapienza, I'm attending the second year of the Master's degree course in Design and Management of Social and Educational Services at the LUMSA University of Rome.

In 2020 I participated in the e-Service-Learning Lab offered by the EIS-LUMSA Postgraduate School during the first phase of the Covid-19 pandemic.

e-Service-Learning LAB

Our teachers asked us to create a SL project, which had the aim of merging service within our community with our skills and interests related to the course of study we were attending.

From these premises my project – "Playing with Giuly" – started.

Given the exceptional nature of the situation, the project was entirely carried out online on the Instagram platform in order to reach more people.

The project consisted in proposing games and educational activities for children between 0 and 3 years old who, as 'victims' of the pandemic, were forced to stay at home; at the same time, I wanted to offer support for all parents who, given the difficulty of the moment, could find on my Instagram page ideas for activities to share with their children.

Thus, "Playing with Giuly" created a supportive network for families and promoted inclusive activities for all.

e-Service-Learning IMPACT

The feedback I received during the project allowed me to understand how great was the need of families not to be left alone in such a difficult moment.

I understood how great was the desire of these parents to stimulate and accompany their children in their growth in the most constructive way as possible, through the constant search for simple activities and games that could entertain their children and at the same time 'educate' them.

The e-Service-Learning 100% online enabled me to gain a greater awareness of the child's day-to-day education, highlighting the fact that in order to achieve a certain objective as effectively as possible, it is necessary to work in a team in a synergistic and cooperative manner, just like in a football match in which each member of the team has a role to play and contributes to achieving a win.
